

Cabine C

From October 23 to November 30, 2008

The Cabine C exhibition at Loto-Québec's Espace Création is nothing short of stunning.

Inspired by its namesake, the one-of-a-kind television program Cabine C, it offers the public a collection of 50 photos of Québec's creative minds, artists who appeared on the show and then agreed to sit for photographer Jean-François Gratton, the show's director of photography. The captivating photos presented at the exhibition are also captured for posterity in a book, aptly titled Cabine C.

Cabine C the exhibition is an intimate meeting of minds. Visitors will be amazed by the nearly life-sized photos, the choice of personalities caught on camera, and the creativity brought to the fore in every one of the works.

Véronique Cloutier, Fred Pellerin, Pierre Lapointe and many others join forces with Jean-François Gratton, one of the province's best photographers, to reveal a part of their imaginations, a secret part of themselves, against unexpected backdrops. "To take my photos," says Jean-François Gratton, "I used the same camera and lighting as I used in the show Cabine C. I wanted to evoke the same idea of a virtual confessional that's suggested in the show."

Prepare yourselves for something truly out of the ordinary! Who knows? Véronique, Fred and Pierre might even confide in you...
